Engaging Volunteers Series

The variety of volunteers' skills, beliefs, and backgrounds is often an agency's greatest asset. This variation brings new perspectives, creativity, and unique skills to organizations. However, it may seem difficult to affectively engage volunteers who fit this description at your own agency.

The Volunteer Center of Lubbock is proud to offer the Engaging Volunteers Series. This new workshop series is designed to educate anyone who works with volunteers about skills-based, faith-based, and diverse volunteer populations. These sessions will help you better understand unique volunteer populations, create appropriate volunteer opportunities, and design recruitment, training, and supervision strategies for these volunteer groups.

WORKSHOP TOPICS AND TRAINING DATES INCLUDE:

- 1 Engaging Skills-Based Volunteers
 - Date: Thursday, February 25
 - Registration Deadline: Thursday, February 18
Learn how to use people's specific knowledge and skills to your advantage
- 2 Engaging Faith-Based Communities
 - Date: Thursday, March 25
 - Registration Deadline: Thursday, March 18
Learn about the relationship between people's faith and service
- 3 Engaging a More Diverse Volunteer Population
 - Date: Thursday, April 22
 - Registration Deadline: Thursday, April 15
Learn about increasing the diversity of your volunteer population.
